

The responsibility and power of making the laws for our country is vested in the Legislative Branch of the federal government.

The Legislative Branch consists of the Congress, which is divided into two chambers: the U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate.

U.S. citizens are represented by one Member of Congress in the U.S. House of Representatives, who represents the Congressional District in which their constituents reside, and two Senators in the U.S. Senate, who represent the entire state.

I represent the 7th Congressional District of Wisconsin in the U.S. House of Representatives. Senators Herb Kohl and Russ Feingold represent Wisconsin in the U.S. Senate.
